Frank Scully Esq,

Dear Mr Scully,

Harking back to your letter to me dated 14th April, 1954 does seem a long way, But I do hope that you are surviving in this mad world and that you are keeping the flag of your book flying in 1962. I seem to have become quite famous in this country over the subject of flying saucers and space travel, although I often warn myself that there is just a thin line between fame and notoriety.

However I have been on our local television stations some 10 times and the most paralysing event one had at Plymouth was when I appeared in a space travel suit, and sent a new year's greeting to the Master of Venus. Just prior to that I had appeared with my lady partner VENUSIA and gave an account with her of our intended trip to Venus and back.

That event shook the whole television building and paralysed the actual studio in which we appeared.

To give you an idea as to how we looked, I send you herewith an actual photograph of our scene at the Plymouth Studio of the Westward Television Company.

I understand that before we were booked on this item that the Managing Director of the television company had to be converted, as he considered the whole idea farcical.

He was got under influence however so we went on and did the rest.

My "fame" has spread so much in the South and West of England despite the sarcastic views expressed by a large number of the public that the television company were moved to descend on my premises last month, fit them up as a temporary television studio, and filmed me therein, which was afterwards shown in my tenth television appearance.

I do hope you will find this letter interesting, as I am up against a vast populace of unbelievers and it takes some courage to face an audience composed of that category and ram down their throats the facts of the existence of flying saucers and interplanetary space travel.

On that point I am sheer up against our British Scientists and all the Universities.

Talking of the latter I had a visit from the Cambridge University Astronomical Society by four of ~~its~~ members to see what sort of a chap I was, oh yes, I knew WHY they had come, as there was a move by the more tolerant part of their members to get me to lecture upon Flying Saucers at their College in the teeth of the local scientific "bigwigs".

Well they had their surprises, and one of the things they utterly failed at was what actually existed between all the planets IN SPACE, and they replied they knew not. I then told them that the whole of that vast space was packed tight with magnetic lines of force to the density of 1257 lines per square centimetre, and they just gasped, having LEARN'T something from me. Then they got very curious and asked me if I would demonstrate my magnetic methods the suspension of a 14 lb weight in mid-air without any mechanical support and this I did by asking one of them to hold up that weight with both hands and at my word "let go" to take away their hands. This they did and I passed my left hand over the top of the weight shouting let go and lo and behold the weight stood in mid-air suspended about four feet above my table.

They are now trying to get me to the Cambridge University next Autumn, and I am sure they are going to hear something more than fun.

I am now awaiting any day here a visit from the Venusians to take my partner and myself for a return space trip to Venus, where we hope to walk about that planet for four hours ere we return to this part of our Earth.

Then I shall be booked to tour the world and want to come to Hollywood or Los Angeles to give a factual lecture on the life of the planet Venus.

I have no doubt that you will be able to arrange that public lecture for me at which I shall no doubt just stun the American population of that part of your country.

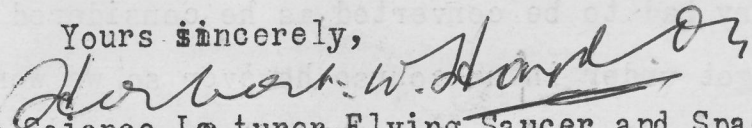

You have been warned of this impending event, so prepare my reception at your location.

Well Mr Scully I keep your book always by me as my space bible, and I have marked it page, and page with my own comments, all of course in its favour.

I could go on quite a while on this matter, but I plead with you for an esteemed reply as soon as you receive this letter.

With very best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

(Herbert W. Haydon, Science Lecturer, Flying Saucer and Space Travel Exponent, Television Broadcaster, Electrical and Radio Technician)

Dear Mr. Scully:

The inclosed notes are but a small part of the total information on the Watchers, and the case against them. Because of the trend of events I am writing you, as well as other New Age and Flying Saucer leaders and authors in order to give at least a brief outline on this subject.

Some of the reference material such as the Book of Enoch may be difficult to obtain. Others such as the "Prophecy of Nathan," the Lamentations of Jared," and the "Song of the Young Mariner," are impossible to obtain at the present time through ordinary means. The last three are books from the Dead Sea Scrolls. The "Prophecy of Nathan" tells of the election and assassination of J.F.K., as well as several things to occur in the future. There is another manuscript, "The Boast of Maximus," which was written by the Roman Emperor Pupienus Maximus (a Watcher) around 455 A.D. This was found by a high official in the Vatican who wishes to remain anonymous.

Not all large people are Watchers, of course. But they are a race, and with a little practice can be identified fairly easily. If you have a copy of the Feb. 24 Time (with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev on the cover), look compare the likenesses of Nelson Rockefeller, Princess Irene, and Henry Ford II's former wife and daughters---beginning on p.38.

Several other well known Watchers are Charles De Gaulle, Walter Ulbrecht, and Earl Warren. I don't know your political feelings, Mr. Scully, so please excuse me if I did not use the most appropriate names for an example. But they are a few of the most prominent ones I could think of at the moment. Needless to say, when one begins naming names, it does get a little sticky, as the British say.

I will send you more notes and some copies of the reference materials when I am better organized, if you so desire. I would appreciate very much your comments or opinions on this material. Several people to whom I have spoken said that they had begun to suspect something of the sort that is described herein. Many thanks.

Sincerely,

Clete Goffard

A Brief History of the WATCHERS, and Who They Are

Over eight thousand years ago, the first Watchers were created as androids on the Hub. The Hub is the center of the Universe, and the dwelling place of the most highly evolved people in it. The creator of the Watchers was a man of high rank on the Hub by the name of Lucifer. It was his intention to create a super-perfect race, but something went wrong. The Watchers under the leadership of Lucifer joined with unsavory peoples from the outer planets and revolted against the Hub. The commander of the Hub fleet was Michael, called the archangel Michael. The account of the revolt is described in Revelation (called the Apocalypse in the Douay Bible) 12.7:

And there was war in heaven: Michael and his angels going forth to war with the dragon; and the dragon warred and his angels; and they prevailed not, neither was their place found anymore in heaven. And the great dragon was cast down, the old serpent, he that is called the Devil and Satan, the deceiver of the whole world; he was cast down to earth, and his angels were cast down with him... Woe for the earth and the sea: Because the Devil is gone down unto you, having great wrath, knowing that he hath but a short time.

The Watchers are the fallen angels. Samiaazaz surrendered the remnants of the Watcher fleet. Most of it was in flames.

Because of their policy concerning the death penalty, the people of the Hub decided to parole the Watchers to primitive-type planets, with the idea of them teaching the inhabitants the arts of civilization. Because the Earth was very primitive at this time, it was one of the planets chosen. Two hundred Watchers were left on Mt. Hermon in what is now Lebanon. There were two tribes in the area. The tribe of Adam, led by Jared which lived in caves in the side of the mountain, and the tribe of Cain which lived in the valley below. The Watchers taught the tribe of Cain about astronomy, astrology, the movements of the clouds, how to work metal, how to weave and dye cloth, agriculture and many other things, including the written language. They also introduced musical instruments: trumpets, horns, cymbals, flutes, psalteries, and lyres.

They told them that gold was very valuable, introduced the money system, and set up the first banking system (which their descendants have controlled to the present day, and through which they can and do control the destinies of nations and individuals).

They showed them how to make armor, swords, breastplates, shields and helmets. Because they must have liquor to live, The Watchers introduced its manufacture to the tribe (so you see that calling liquor 'Devil's Brew' is not too far from the truth). They also introduced cock-fighting, dog-fighting, gladiator games and horse racing. With this came gambling. The result was gin-mills, street fights, claim jumping, drunkenness, wide spread debauchery, and sexual perversion.

Gabriel, Michael, Erel (or Uriel) and Raphael, now called archangels, were commanders of ships from the Hub who had come to check-up on the Watchers, and found that they had violated their parole. The archangels took steps to arrest the Watchers. Some managed to run away: one who escaped became a god in Babylonian Mythology. One even got to North America, where he sired the notorious 'Kroqk' Indians. One of the Watchers hanged himself. The rest were taken to the prison planet of Mercury (cf. Matt. 25:41 : Depart from me ye cursed, into the eternal fire which is prepared for the Devil and his angels.). Because Mercury keeps the same hemisphere toward the sun, one half is a burning furnace, the other a deep freeze. Life can survive in a narrow belt between the two.

The archangels did not bother the children of the Watchers. Under their laws they were Earth born and could not be touched, although some of them were undoubtedly full blooded Watchers. This is recorded in the Book of Enoch, which has been eliminated from the regular Bible.

Because the Watchers were considered to be gods, their children were considered to be gods. In that day, anyone who came down from the skies would probably have been considered a god. The fact ~~that~~ the Watchers were of fair complexion, larger than the cavemen, and could do 'magical things' abetted this.

The Council of Five was formed by the Watcher children, and continues to this day. Its five permanent members have their present headquarters in Switzerland. Below this Superior Council is a Council of Fifteen with rotating membership. These two Councils sometimes refer to themselves as the Illuminati. Many of the Watchers' ancient documents and records are kept in sealed vaults in Switzerland. Yes, the Watchers are the International Bankers, although this is but part of the entire story: in the western world they are bankers, businessmen, and owners of large corporations; in Russia they control the military; and they are today's and yesterday's nobility: kings, queens, princes, counts, barons, earls, and dukes. There are no Negro or Oriental Watchers---except ^{as} half-breeds.

For hundreds of years, these god-king ruled in Nineveh, Tyre, and Babylonia. The city of Ur was one of their early headquarters. They gained control of Egypt by substituting one of their babies for the son of the Pharaoh. And the little Watcher grew up to be Pharaoh of Egypt. And his sons after him. They took over the Israelites in the same way: by substituting one of their youths for King David's son Solomon. As a thief in the night.

This particular subterfuge (called 'ringing in') is still being used. They often substitute one of their babies for the child of poor parents. The baby grows up and becomes a financier or big businessman. Thus 'proving' that anyone, regardless of his background can become a Captain of Industry. It also keeps the names of the affluent families changing lest the slaves get too suspicious. The Czars of Russia were Watchers. ~~Came~~ the revolution, the Czar was killed but the new leaders were Watchers. It is said that a young soldier of the Revolution was invited to a sort of victory party and confab after victory was won, and he was bewildered at seeing the size of the Watcher officers. He went back to his section of the country and told his neighbors: nothing was really changed---the same people were in power, only the names had changed. Although Khrushchev is an Earthman, he was put in power by the Watchers, and is too scared to oppose them.

The Roman generals (and Caesars) that persecuted the early Christians were Watchers. When they saw they couldn't beat them, they joined them. After St. Peter died, the Watcher 'Christians' became, eventually, popes, cardinals, arch-bishops, etc. When one reached a position of authority, he appointed other Watcher below him (the late Pope John XXIII was not a Watcher. Neither is Paul VI).

When Martin Luther tried to reform a corrupt Church, he ran headon into the Watchers. He was branded a heretic and disrobed. When the Watchers saw that the Lutheran religion was gaining strength, they took it over. Other reformers were not as fortunate as Luther. They were burned at the stake as heretics and witches, or put to death on inhuman torture machines. Machines as inhuman as those that pressed them into service. For the truth of the matter is that the Watchers are not human. They are not of the race of man. They are androids without the Divine Spark. They are an abomination and testimony of Lucifer's attempt at creating life. Although Lucifer succeeded in making a highly sophisticated flesh and blood robot in the image of man, he could not create the eternal Spirit, the child of God, that is man's true identity rather than his physical body alone.

Copernicus was tried by the Church not because his hypothesis that the earth moved about the sun would have disrupted religious faith, but because the Watchers saw this a first step in man's understanding of the Universe through his ability to reason, and the beginning of his recourse to ~~through~~ observation and thinking rather than blind faith or superstition. Some of the Watcher Inquisitors at the trial probably knew more about the Universe and its laws from their ancient records than Copernicus dreamed of knowing. He was persecuted not because they thought the sun revolved about the earth, but because they knew 'damned well' it didn't. They also knew that if their slaves learned to think for themselves, they would eventually learn the truth about the Watchers.

History is studded with examples of reformers, innovators, inventors, scientists, and spiritual leaders who have fought the tyranny of the Watchers and have sooner or later lost because they did not know the true nature of their adversary. Perhaps they did not lose altogether, for although they may have fallen short in the achievement of their immediate goal, still, each thrust at inequity has left the earth a freer and more enlightened planet. They may have thought they were fighting a corrupt religious hierarchy, a decadent system, King George of England, the International Bankers, the Silence Group, or other enemies. But their real enemy was one and the same.

Are the Watchers worried about the enmity between Jew and Gentile, White and Colored, Catholic and Protestant? They encourage it! A prime instrument in their suppression of mankind is the technique of dividing and conquering. They try to keep earthmen fighting and bickering among themselves so they will not discover their common adversary. They want various groups to think that the real threat to their own survival and freedom is Zionism, Catholicism, Nationalism, Communism or Capitalism. The disunity and ignorance of mankind is their strength, the brotherhood of and enlightened mankind is their Armageddon.

The Watchers do not consider themselves earthmen. They regard the people of this planet as slaves to do their bidding and maintain them in luxury. Any kind of progress is a threat to the Watchers, and they have opposed every attempt of mankind to free himself from the shackles of poverty and ignorance.

They have opposed the Magna Charta (won by a bunch of working slobs from the nobility), the American colonies desire for Independence (and they got it, through the efforts of a group of farmers with squirrel rifles, political 'fanatics' who would probably be called 'Communist agitators' today, and a motley crew of social and political theorists: another victory for the small man), the French and Russian Revolutions (the peasants really got out of hand here), the Independence of Africa (there are no Colored Watchers), the steam engine, Tesla's inventions (some would make a buck for them, others were too dangerous), the airplane (the Watchers knew the principle of the airplane for thousands of years, but a tookma couple of bicycle mechanics to figure it out for themselves and the rest of us), Space, Travel, Free Energy, and Flying Saucers. They are especially afraid of the latter, for they felt that the peoples of other planets, knowing the truth, would let the cat out of the bag.

Once the mankind on this planet discovers the real tyrant, the planner of wars and depressions, he will rise to depose him. And there are quite a few people that are beginning to suspect the real state of affairs.

What does a Watcher look like?

A First Class Watcher is large in size with a round softness to him; he is not necessarily fat. He is well proportioned in size as a rule, and does not have the appearance of being husky. A large workingman could look small standing beside a First Class Watcher. The Watcher has no expression on his face, and no emotions except to defend himself and his own class. He needs liquor of some kind to live.

A Second Class Watcher may not be quite as large, although he can be just as tall, although not necessarily so. The reason is because he has some earth blood in him.

A Third Class Watcher is little more than an earthman with some Watcher blood in him, but his thinking parallels that of the other Watchers.

A Shadow Watcher is an earthman who has been taken under the wing of the Watchers, and is an executive-type or straw boss for them. His thinking also parallels that of the other Watchers.

Only the First Class and some of the Second Class know that they are Watchers. The others realize that they are a part of an International set-up that runs the world. Generally, the caste system of Class is pretty rigid, although a Watcher of a lower class may be made a member of a higher class due to the achievement of power, position, furthering the Watcher cause, or because of size alone. When First Class Watcher children reach a certain age, around college age, a number of them are gathered together, usually in Watcher club, and are initiated into who they are, their history, and the aims of the Watchers. The Watchers have their own language that they speak among themselves and their own religion, which is a mixture of paganism and self-worship. Use of the religion is strictly private among themselves, of course. In the outside world they pose as members of orthodox faiths. The ceremony of Initiation and even its existence is supposed to be top-secret.

The Watchers look out for themselves. In business, in the military, and so on the Watchers in the 'know' make it a practice to promote and advance the Watcher or Shadow Watcher over the earthman, or give the Watcher the easier job. If one of them gets killed in the war it is usually by accident. Watchers are clever and shrewd in that they can control business, and they are accomplished in the arts of warfare, but they have no talent for art, music, literature, science, ect. That is, no creative talent or real ability. One might be made the head of a science department, but it would be lucky if he could 'boil water.' They even have to send the Watcher girls to finishing school to walk, talk, and conduct themselves as reasonable facsimiles of ladies.

The aspect of the size of the Watchers, especially those of the First Class will be dramatically driven home by observing them in person, in groups, if possible. This is usually best done in the business section of a large metropolitan area around the noon hour, or around one of their private clubs.

The full story of the Watchers could not have been uncovered without the help of the Spacepeople, and even then, not until the time was ripe, and the various New Age and Flying Saucer groups ready to take the truth before the world. I, for one, believe that the time is ripe for the world to be told of its bondage for the past eight thousand years. And I believe that it was made ripe, in part, by one of the worst mistakes the Watchers have ever made: the cold-blooded murder of a fearless fighter for freedom and the rights of man everywhere---our late president, John F. Kennedy.

The Watchers gained control of Oswald's mind through hypnosis, and later had him 'rubbed out' to seal his mouth and mind from an America determined to know the truth. The Blue Ribbon Commission, dominated by Watchers, will cover up more than it uncovers.

If the Watchers are successfully exposed, the result would not be long in coming, nor would they long prevail.

Dear Sally Morris:-

Thank you so much for your nice letter of September 26, to Mr. Scully. I am sorry to tell you that Mr. Scully died two years ago.

You asked if he had learned about any new saucer information. Yes, we have. There has been steady flying saucer activities over the years. Finally, only three days ago it was announced that the University of Colorado will investigate "in depth" flying saucers. Meanwhile, you may have seen the two issues of Look just out, regarding a personal encounter with people on a flying saucer.

We have collected quite a file of flying saucer material over the years, and I'm trying to figure out what to do with it. It certainly is a fascinating subject.

All the best wishes to you, and may God bless you,

Yours sincerely,

MRS. FRANK SCULLY
